/EINPresswire.com/ VisiInc (VZJ), a provider of revolutionary collaboration tools for online conferences that enable real-time sharing of complex data in its native format, similar to companies like EasyLink Services International Corp. (NASDAQ: ESIC) WebEx and Digital River, Inc. (NASDAQ: DRIV), recently acquired VIA3 in a move that could create the perfect storm in web collaboration.

As their commercial launch approaches, I have to take a moment to revisit VisiInc. This rapidly growing company, headquartered in Perth, Australia and registered in the UK, is really a game-changer in the fields of content collaboration and teleconferencing. So, consider this an exclusive update - a sneak preview of an unprecedented product and an undiscovered stock.

As I mentioned last time, VisiInc is the company behind the miraculous Vistime - a proprietary platform that enables businesses and institutions to share any content with any number of people around the world in real time regardless of file type or size. Vistime is literally a dream for industry professionals including doctors, scientists, engineers, filmmakers and geologists. The cross-platform compatibility expedites everything from special effects to ultrasounds.

Nothing else out there combines video conferencing, voice conferencing or 3-D collaboration with as many key features. In addition to strong customer traction, VisiInc has caught the eyes of several leading software vendors in web collaboration and CMS. The company is poised to give public comparables like J2 Global Communications Inc. (JCOM), EasyLink Services International Corp. (ESIC) and Cisco Systems Inc. (CSCO) a serious run for their money.

Recently, VisiInc entered into a merger agreement with VIA3 - an American company that has specialized in private face-to-face web collaboration since 1999. Through this $16 million all-stock acquisition, VisiInc is now the first and only software based FIPS 140-2 certified web conferencing platform on the market. This super-secure combination is not only a match made in heaven, but it's bursting with near-term potential as well. "In acquiring VIA3, the VisiInc offering will significantly accelerate our Australian E-health market thrust as well as fast track numerous global projects relating to health, medical, aerospace, engineering, geosciences, mining and education markets," said Founder and CEO Jacques Blandin. VisiInc and VIA3 together are the total package. The stage is set, folks. This is a lead pipe cinch. And, if that aphorism doesn't do it for you, try this one of for size. You could be the early bird. VisiInc stock could be your worm. Catch it while you can.
